Recurrence Relations

Combinatorics

Fall 2026

Recurrence relations are equations that define a sequence where each term is defined as a function of its predecessors. This unit introduces the concept of recurrence relations and their solutions, focusing on linear homogeneous and non-homogeneous relations with constant coefficients. We will explore methods for solving these relations, including characteristic equations and generating functions.